NUMBER 41

Resolutions.

We the teachers of Adair county, resolve:

1. That the county pupils be graduated and given their diplomas at the next session of our county Institute.
2. That we, as teachers, endorse any good movement for the improvement of the roads in Adair County.
3. That in matters of school progress, up to a reasonable point, the Superintendent should be independent of the County Board.
4. That the Teachers of Adair county adopt "Public School Methods."
5. That we make every effort to retain the honors we now hold in the fight against illiteracy, and that our representative be instructed to use his influence in securing the passage of a bill providing for the payment of teachers for one month's Moonlight Schools.
6. That we ask our representative to secure legislation standardizing our schools so as to require teachers entering the profession within the next few years to have a High School education.
7. That we appreciate the worthy efforts of our County Superintendent, and thank him heartily for having secured, as our instructor, the most distinguished woman in Kentucky, whose earnest and practical work we thoroughly appreciate.
8. That we extend our thanks to the local ministers, the speakers, and visitors who have inspired us by their presence.
9. That Mrs. Thomas and Miss Johnson be extended our thanks for their excellent music, which has added greatly to the interest and pleasure of our Institute.
10. That we endorse the efficient work in our community of our County High School and Lindsey-Wilson Training School, and also of our State Institutions.
11. That we pledge our support in retaining the increased enthusiasm in educational progress caused by our last school rally and in making our next school rally a greater success.
12. That we, as teachers, urge the County Superintendent and County Board of Education to at once use the power given them by law to secure suitable playground for each school in the county.

Meet me at the Columbia Fair next Tuesday. I will be there every day.

Green-Tarter.

A wedding of unusual interest to the many friends of the contracting parties was solemnized at the Methodist parsonage in Summitville Thursday afternoon of last week, when Miss Mae Tarter, daughter of W. D. Tarter, and Sterling Green, of Antioch, were married.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Oliver L. Green of Summitville, and immediately afterwards the couple left for a wedding trip through St. Louis, Springfield, Ill., and Chicago. They will be at home in Antioch next week.

Mrs. Green was one of the most popular school teachers in Coffee county, while the groom is a prominent railroad man, being connected with the N. C. & St. L. Ry.-Manchester, Tenn., Times.

Commissioner Newman thinks that the foot and mouth disease which has raged over Kentucky for nearly a year has some compensations in that there has been a reduction in the number of cases of catarrhal fever among horses, pink eye and black leg among cattle and hog cholera because all the stock cars and stock pens of the State have been thoroughly disinfected. He estimates that the saving to the farmers in this way will amount to something like a million dollars.

Now that candidates for State offices and also district and county offices having been nominated, the canvass for the November election has opened, and we will hear politics every day until the final election.

The Three p's in the Educational Garden.

Mrs. Cora Wilson-Stewart, who conducted the Adair County Teacher's Institute at Columbia last week, lectured at the court house Thursday evening to a large, appreciative audience, composed of the citizens of the town and county and the county teachers. Mrs. Stewart was introduced by county superintendent Huffaker as one of the leading educators of the nation.

There was much speculation among the teaching profession as to what was meant by the three P's. The anxiety was relieved, however, when the speaker announced that they stood for Parent, Pupil and Pedagogue. Each of the three factors were ably discussed by the speaker in all their different phases.

The education of parent as well as pupil, by the pedagogue, was urged. Mrs. Stewart said there were teachers in Kentucky who were as great philanthropists as Jane Adams or Andrew Carnegie, teachers who saw in every illiterate young man the possibilities of an Owen Kildare, a James Garfield, an Abraham Lincoln. She lauded teacher who volunteered teaching at night. She pleaded for a more careful study of the child, of a more sympathetic understanding of his qualities. She said there were no dull pupils, if the lying pupil could be developed into an author, the fighting one into a surgeon, the contentious one into a lawyer and the incorrigible one into politicians. She dwelt upon the influence of the teacher saying the teacher through his influence lived forever.

Although Mrs. Stewart had undergone the strain of the hardest and most enthusiastic day of the splendid institute which she conducted, she charmed the audience by her masterful discussion of the subject and the splendid manner in which the message was presented. Mrs. Stewart is very popular with the teachers of the institute and the citizenship of this place. They have faith in both her ability and her work.

Next Tuesday the Columbia Fair will open and the town will be full of people.

Notice to Blacksmiths and Farmers.

We have a nice lot of singletrees for sale. Apply at stove yard.

Mr. E. C. Page, who is employed at Frankfort, was in Columbia last Thursday. He came down to be with his wife who is in a critical condition. It will be remembered that some time since Mrs. Page went to Louisville and submitted to an operation. For awhile after the operation it was thought that she was improving, but ten days ago unfavorable symptoms set up and her husband and friends are very uneasy about her condition.

A report has reached here that Bob McWhorter, the colored man who was tried two or three times in the Adair circuit court, upon a charge of house burning, was drowned in Green river last Tuesday. His body had not been found up to Wednesday morning. It is said that he was with a party on a fishing expedition.

Persons in Adair and adjoining counties who will attend the Fair, next week, and who are indebted to this office are requested to call and settle. The office will be open until noon each day and also the greater portion of the afternoons.

Some weeks ago the Rapid Transit company, hauled from here to Campbellsville, besides other loading, at one time, eight hogheads of tobacco. This gives the public an idea of the weight of hauling a trip.

The Parlor Circle was opened last Thursday night, to large attendance. The show will continue on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings during the fall and winter.

Tom Jones, of color, was adjudged a lunatic last Saturday and will be sent to Anchorage.

The Irish potato crop in Adair county is the best for many years.

The Institute.

The meeting of the teachers and visitors last Thursday afternoon proved most interesting. Attorney General Garnett was present, and upon the invitation and introduction of Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, the instructor, he spoke on the progress of moonlight schools in Kentucky, and especially in Adair county. In introducing Mr. Garnett, Mrs. Wilson paid him a high compliment as a State official.

In the course of General Garnett's speech he congratulated Adair county for having had the banner moonlight school of the State, and also for furnishing the board the best written prize story. He declared that the teachers of Adair county had the ability and in his judgment would hold the leadership in advancing the unlearned. He was of the opinion that the next Legislature would make an appropriation for the benefit of moonlight schools. The speech throughout was well received, and it was followed by the audience singing, "My Old Kentucky home."

A number of teachers made interesting talks, and the entire body was greatly enthused, and eighty-two teachers signified a willingness to take up moonlight school work.

Mrs. Stewart is the originator of the moonlight schools. She is a lady of intellectual ability and her whole heart is in the work. There is a demand for her, not only in Kentucky, but in other states, papers from a distance often speaking of her and the cause she represents. She is very popular in Adair county, her coming being hailed with delight each visit she makes to Columbia.

During the institute the music was directed by Mrs. Margaret Thomas and Miss Nell Johnson, who teach at Greenville, Ky. Through their efforts the audience was treated to many beautiful songs which were highly appreciated.

The session closed Friday at noon, and it was pronounced one of the most profitable institutes ever held in Adair county.

The gates of the Columbia Fair Grounds will swing open next Tuesday, preparatory for one of the greatest meetings ever held during history.

The ring-necked pheasants that were distributed throughout Kentucky last spring are said to be hatching their eggs very successfully and with a few years of absolute protection will increase in large numbers. This will be good news to the sportsmen who are expecting great sport when allowed to hunt these birds.

Eld. Virles Williams, of Stillwater, Okla., delivered a very able discourse at the Christian church last Sunday night. Eld. Williams is a native of Adair, and his friends are proud of his record as a minister.

The buildings and stables on the Fair Grounds have been over-hauled, placed in good condition, and a number of stalls have been engaged. The show stock will begin to arrive the latter part of this week.

Our Gradyville correspondent and other reporters will please send in their letters, this week, on Thursday or Friday, as we will go to press a day earlier next week—on account of the fair.

Born to the wife of C. M. Barnett, Mt. Vernon, Ill., Wednesday, August 4th, a ten pound daughter. A letter to relatives here state that the mother and baby are doing well.

The election is over. Stanley has won. Forget your troubles and get ready for the Fair.

The United Brethren Conference will be held in Columbia, beginning October 13. The church building at this place will be dedicated by Bishop Mathews Sunday the 17th.

C. S. Harris has bought in the last two weeks between forty and fifty young calves at an average of $20 per head.

Get your Poultry ready for the Fair. Place them in neat coops, that they may be plainly seen by the judges.

Mrs. U. L. Taylor will please accept our thanks for a 14 pound tomato, her own growing.

Cut the Weeds.

I wish to call the attention of our citizens to the filthy condition of our town. The streets, alleys are grown up in weeds, the churches are in the same condition. The back yards of the Banks and business houses need looking after. Many of the private homes are in the same uncomely condition. Let us have a general cleaning up. Many people seem to think that cutting the weeds once, will stop them from growing. If this hint is ignored, notices will be served upon them by the marshal, and then they must pay attention. By order of the Board of Health.

U. L. Taylor,
Health Officer.

We will furnish the Louisville Daily Post from now until the 10th of November and the Adair County News, one year, for $1.50. We can not furnish the Post to citizens of Columbia at that price, as the agent furnishes town subscribers. People living out of Columbia, who want a daily paper until after the election, can get the Post for a small sum by subscribing with us. Call or send check or money order. Remember that The News will come to you one year and the Daily Post until the 10th of November for $1.50.

The Columbia Fair begins next Tuesday. Don't fail to see the Cattle Show. It will be one of the grandest ever held in Southern Kentucky.

When the cows are in the pasture do not send a vicious dog to drive them in. The cow that is run to the house by a dog that is continually snapping at her heels must suffer a great deal of pain as her udder is thrown from side to side by the movement of her fleet limbs. If a man is too lazy to walk after his cows he had better get on his horse and ride. A well trained dog may be allowed to bring them in, for he quietly walks behind them and does not bring them down the lane at a two-forty gait.

Mrs. Fannie Taylor, (nee Miss Fannie Meader), of Campbellsville, made a strong fight in the contest put on by the Courier-Journal and Times, automobiles being the prizes. She received over 3,000,000 votes. There were twelve autos put up, the majority of them going to Louisville parties.

Bring your Farm Products and enter them early Tuesday morning, and win some of the rich prizes offered by the Fair Association.

There will be an all day singing at White Oak church the fourth Sunday in August, conducted by Joel Darnell, R. O. Cabbell, Wolford Bros. and others. Also all old time singers are cordially invited to come and bring their Harp of Columbia song books. Every body come and bring their latest song books and well-filled baskets.

A little son of Robert Fletcher, who lives in the Breeding settlement, was thrown from a mule a few days ago, his foot catching in the harness, and he was dragged some distance before being released. He was considerably bruised. Dr. G. T. Simpson was the attending surgeon.

An Upton item in the Larue County Herald says: "A protracted meeting began at the Methodist church Monday night. The pastor is assisted by Rev. A. R. Kasey, one of the strongest preachers of the Louisville Conference."

Riding astride has become quite popular in Columbia. Every afternoon quite a number of young ladies are out exercising the ponies. The equestrians donned in buff riding habits.

John Lee and Allen Walker sold Grover Grissom the lot near the Fair Grounds, upon which is a large barn, known as Hudson's barn. Consideration, private.

We understand there are quite a number of guests at Griffin Spring. The water is delightful, and those who want to swim have access to the classic waters of Green river.

Get your mules ready for the races next week. Good races every day.

Dedication.

On the fourth Sunday in August the new Baptist Church at Columbia will be dedicated. Dr. W. D. Powell will preach the sermon. Dinner will be served, and every body is cordially invited to attend.

Judge Junius Hancock has rented his hotel property to Mr. R. E. Tandy, who will take charge this week. Mr. Tandy has had some experience in the business and will no doubt conduct a popular house. Judge Hancock is one of the best hotel men in the State, and he quits for needed rest. He will remove to Mr. G. W. Lowe's residence, and Prof. W. M. Wilson and wife and Mr. Geo. Hancock and wife will occupy rooms in the dormitory, near the Graded School building.

The Parlor Circle will be open Thursday and Saturday nights of this week, and every night next week. Extra good pictures will be thrown upon the canvass, and the music first-class.

Edgar Reed.

Mr. J. O. Ewing, one of Burkesvilles, prominent lawyers, met with a stroke of apoplexy at the Monroe circuit court last week. It is said that he has so far recovered as to be able to recognize friends about his bedside. His many Adair county friends feel a deep interest, all anxious for his recovery. The attack came just after he had made a lengthy law argument.

The construction of an interurban railroad from Edmonton to Horse Cave is the latest. The grading of road has already commenced, and one mile out from Edmonton has been reached. The natives along the line are greatly enthused, and those who are interested financially say there is no doubt but the road will be pushed to completion.

For Sale.

Two or three pure-bred Poland China sow pigs, two male pigs same age, and one older and ready for use. They are all as fine as you can hope to get anywhere. If you want something as good as the best this is your chance.
C. S. Harris.

Rev. W. C. Christie has been conducting an interesting meeting at Pleasant Ridge, Adair county, a few miles beyond Gradyville. Up to last Thursday there had been nine professions and the interest growing. Mr. John B. Price, of Bowling Green, who was reared in the Pleasant Ridge neighborhood, was present last week, and also his wife, both working in the meeting.

Last Sunday was the birthday of Mr. J. N. Coffey and his son-in-law, Mr. J. F. Patteson. The events were duly celebrated at the home of Mrs. Patteson, a magnificent dinner being spread for the benefit of thirty relatives who dropped in to enjoy the delightful edibles and to spend several hours in social converse.

The County Superintendents directs all teachers to send home all children of four and five years of age that may be sent to their schools. We have no kindergarten department in our schools and the teachers are not employed to do nursing.

Rev. W. C. Christie, assisted by Rev. Wapier, of Hiseville, will commence a series of meetings at the Gradyville Methodist church on September 4. Every body get ready for the revival.

There will be no service at the Baptist church the 3rd Sunday, as I will go to Gilead that day instead of the 4th Sunday.

O. P. Bush.

There will be an ice cream supper at Rocky Hill school house next Friday night.

Next week we will put up the Democratic ticket to be voted for in November. We will also give the names of all the Republican candidates.

Editor News:—

As is known to all men who are honored with my acquaintance, I am as modest as the lowly violet that shed its fragrance in a green and shady dell.

My obscurity is my chief asset, and my sequestered life is not harrassed by the European war or the financial flurries in Wall street.

Howbeit, of recent date, I am placed in the limelight of publicity.

On yesterday I was notified in a letter from an insurance agent that my payment on a policy for $250,000 would be due next Monday, and that if I failed to come across with the needful my forfeiture would be recorded.

Owing to a weak heart, I carry no policy except church membership, and that is a species of fire insurance.

Still another letter came, assuring me that I had borrowed a gun that was the apple of the owner's eye, and $40 in money.

I didn't know the man who sent message of bereavement, had no gun nor son-of-a-gun, and generally speaking, can prove an alibi as far as possession of money is concerned.

A lawyer sent me summons citing me to trial for non-support of my family. My wife is past-mistress of a wash-tub; a high priestess in the culinary art; and with these accomplishments should maintain herself and me in oriental splendor.

Besides this, one of my boys has nine dogs and a shot gun, another is trying to invent perpetual motion; and still another has a very urgent call as sky-pilot to the Mormons.

Another quill driver tendered me an epistle in which I was pronounced a patriot and a philosopher. The same contained a certified check, payable to my order, for $30,000.

No doubt somebody is ready to say that I regarded this as another letter gone wrong, but I did nothing of the kind. I cashed the check and placed proceeds to my credit.

Another letter hailing from Andrew Carnegie, contained a hero's medal and a check for $70,000, payable to my order. Andrew had learned that I was on the ill-starred Titanic, and that, by a deed of valor, I had covered myself with a mantle of fadeless glory. It seemed that a blind aunt of Andrew's, 98 years of age, was making for the life boat, when a gigantic and ruffianly Swede tried to take her place when I knocked him down, and helped the band play,

"Nearer My God to Thee."

while the ship went to locher of Davy Jones and the brave captain and I went down as sublimated heroes, while I was rescued.

Until I saw that check, I didn't remember even being on the Titanic. But that check has wonderful mimic powers.

Money not only talks, but is a wonderful renovator of the memory.

Since I have worldly possessions aggregating $100,000, I am strictly somebody. when a poor devil I was a d—d fiddler, and now I am a violin artist.

When teaching school at $40 a month, I was a contrary, contentious devil, of importance. Now I am solicited to accept every office from Congress to constable, and all I say is wise and witty.

I have a Ford auto that cost $450, but it is heralded abroad as a limousine worth $4,500.

When I visit Shelby, King's Mountain or Charlotte, every rural rocster of a paper exploits the information that Col. Corn Cracker was in town, and informed a reporter that if it didn't rain it would be a long dry spell. Melvin L. White.

Water Your Hens.

In the current issue of Farm and Fireside a successful poultry man gives the following advice:

"If you do not pay attention to the water your hens have, so that they have all they want of it before them all the time, you will not get so many eggs. You may not see any difference the very next day but in a day or two the yield will fall off, and stay off for several days. Just one day's lack of water will do that.

"You have got to keep a hen busy. The piece of corn we plant near the henhouse seems just to fill the bill. The hen can dig in the earth, pick up bugs and bits of gravel, and be sheltered while doing their work.

"The more you call them the more scared they are. If you just go along quietly they won't notice you."

"New men, new ways, new methods are disturbing factors. All changes need to be gradually introduced. All frights are followed by dropping off of eggs."

A Nice Profit.

A farmer recently speaking of mules and the advantages of raising them, said he considered them the best crop he knew of, and had been breeding them all his life and never owned a mule he could not sell, and unusually at nice profit. As an instance of what could be done with mules he said that three years ago he purchased five mule colts and placed them with three of his own breeding. He paid $80 a head for the five, and that is probably a close average to the worth of the lot. During the summer they had the run of the pasture. As soon as the grain was out of the fields they were given the run of the stubble and stalkfields, and in winter were housed in a commodious straw shed, and fed some grain. The next spring they went on to bluegrass. Four of the mules were sold during the summer, and the remaining four were sold at a public sale that fall. The average selling price for the eight head was $191.50.

READY FOR THE ROAD

THE Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission in an endeavor to reach the people of the rural districts of certain counties in the state has equipped an automobile with an entire outfit for producing moving pictures. Films regarding tuberculosis, supplemented by stereopticon slides and accompanied by a lecturer, were used last summer to reach over 21,000 people in nine different counties. Most of the demonstrations were given in the open air, besides country churches and schools, and in every case the teachers and physicians of the county have co-operated heartily in taking this message of good health to as many people as possible. The record attendance was 750 in one evening at a tiny village several miles from the railroad.

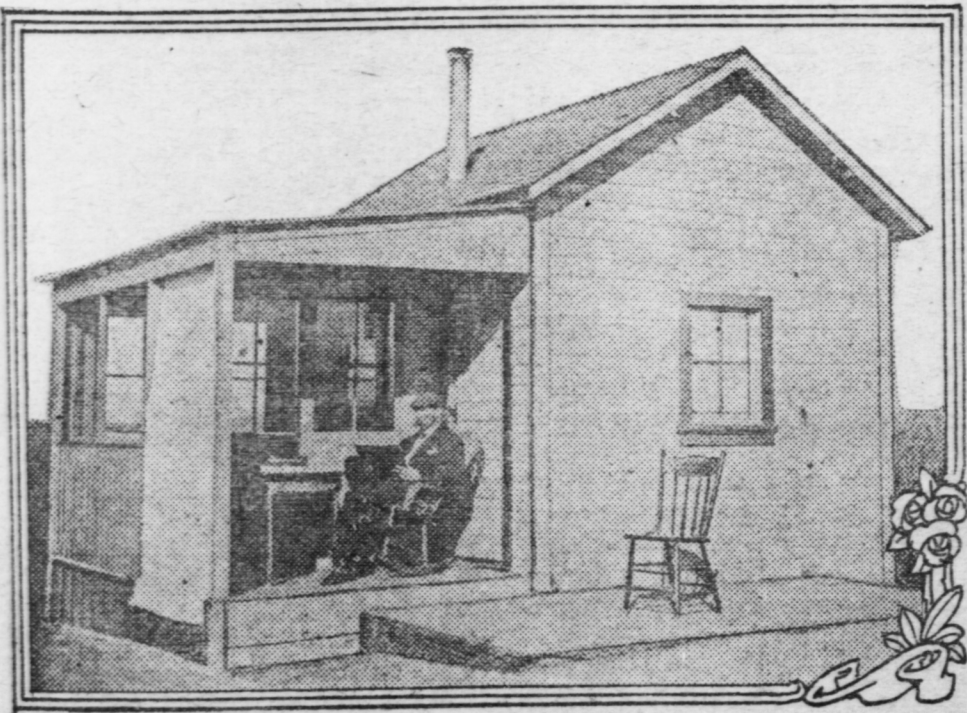

This equipment will be used again during the coming summer.

EXTERIOR OF THE HEALTH EXHIBIT CAR

THIS shows a whole school with a number of adult passersby who have just viewed the health exhibit sent out over the railroads of the state by the Kentucky Tuberculosis Commission. These exhibits show in simple form all the average layman needs to know about how he may catch consumption, how he may be cured of the disease and how this great plague may be driven out of the state.

Home Care of Consumption

HAVE you tuberculosis, and must you make your fight at home like this fellow? Then here is help for you.

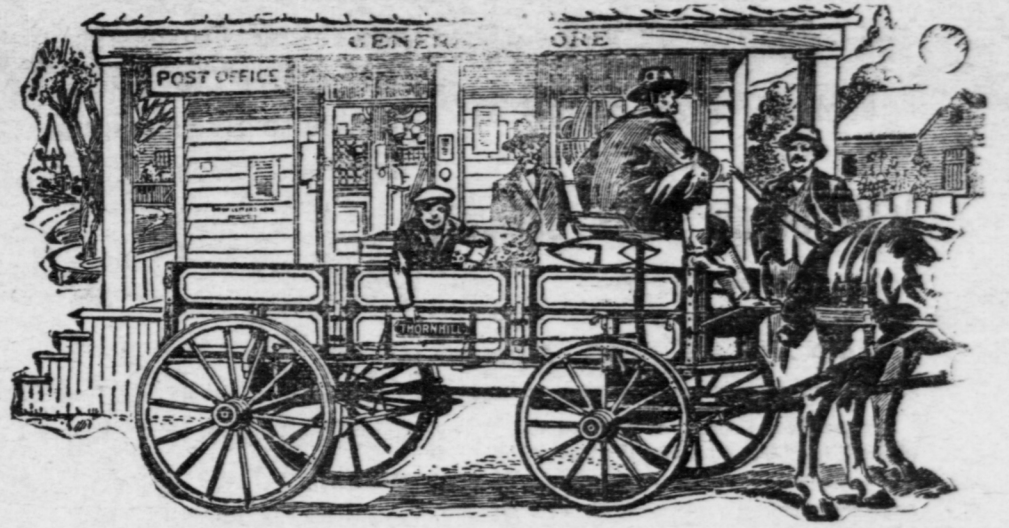

THE STATE TUBERCULOSIS COMMISSION AT THE CAPITOL BUILDING, FRANKFORT, HAS PREPARED A BOOK ON THE HOME CARE OF CONSUMPTION WHICH IT WILL SEND ON REQUEST FREE TO ANY CONSUMPTIVE OR TO ANY PHYSICIAN OR HEALTH OFFICER IN THE STATE. THIS BOOK WILL NOT TAKE THE PLACE OF THE PHYSICIAN IN ANY CASE. IT IS INTENDED TO HELP THE DOCTOR AND THE PATIENT.

The book gives helpful suggestions about how to use fresh air; how to prepare attractive dishes for the patient; how to protect the family, so that the disease will not spread to others. Prominent physicians, nurses and social workers have written and approved the book. Any one who needs the book can secure a copy by writing the Commission at its office in Frankfort.

THE PRIMARY ELECTION.

Stanley Sweeps the State, His Majority Over McChesney Close to Forty Thousand

R. B. TRIGG AN EASY WINNER.

The returns are not all in, but a sufficient information is in for us to state that the Democratic race for the nomination for Governor has been easily won by Hon. A. O. Stanley, his plurality in the State being between thirty and forty thousand. Many counties in the State that were predicted for McChesney, fell into the Stanley line, and the latter's ardent supporters are jubilant.

Mr. McChesney, who represented the prohibition sentiment ran second in the race, Mr. McDermott was third in the race, but he made a very poor showing. He carried the city of Louisville by about two thousand votes over Stanley, and Stanley won over McChesney in same city by something like five thousand. Out in the State Mr. Stanley's supporters were loyal and were busy throughout the day. All the counties in the State have not reported, and by next week we will be able to give his exact majority.

While McChesney and McDermott had some warm supporters in Adair county, they are not sore, and every man, so far as we know, will support the nominees of Saturday's primary.

There are two reports as to the result of the race for Lieutenant Governor, one stating that Black was nominated, the other that Edwards was successful, but it is generally believed that Mr. Black won out. Barksdale Hamlett seems to have won for Secretary of State, Green for Auditor, though Terrell's friends have not given up, and later returns may show that he has been nominated. Mat S. Cohen was nominated for Commissioner of Agriculture by a decisive majority.

In the Railroad Commissioner's race, the indication point to Douthitt as the successful candidate.

This article is being written before the returns are all in, but before we go to press we may be able to give the names of the nominees beyond the peradventure of a doubt.

Rodman W. Keenon, of Mercer county, won easily for Clerk of the Court of Appeals.

In the Eleventh Judicial district Judge I. H. Thurman was nominated to succeed himself over Clem Hill in the counties, of Green, Taylor, Marion and Washington, his majority being close to one thousand. He carried all four of the counties.

In the 10th Judicial district Judge S. E. Jones was defeated by Judge D. A. McCandless for the nomination of Circuit Judge.

In the Pulaski Judicial district Berthurum won for Judge over Kennedy. This was a Republican contest. Flippin was nominated by the same party for State's Attorney.

Edwin P. Morrow swept the State as the Republican candidate for Governor. W. A. Hunter, of the same party, won for Treasurer. He is a native of Burkesville, a son of Dr. Godfrey Hunter.

W. I. Meader was renominated by the Democrats of Taylor county for Circuit Court Clerk.

R. B. Trigg's majority for the Senate, over D. E. Hatcher is about eight hundred. He carried all three of the counties, Adair, Barren and Metcalfe.

Tom Neat, Republican, was nominated for the Legislature by something like eight hundred votes over his opponent, B. G. Redman.

Finis Strange was nominated by the Democrats for Circuit Court Clerk.

In the race for the Republican nomination for Circuit Court Clerk of Adair county, Mike C. Winfrey defeated the present incumbent, W. T. Price, by 293 votes.

News has reached here that Sid Douthitt won in the Railroad Commissioner's race by over three thousand. He is a Henry county citizen and one of the most popular men in that section of the State.

As a result of election quarrels four men were killed in Kentucky on the day of the primary. Three others were badly wounded. Two of the deaths were in Breathitt county, one in Madison and one in Fulton.

Now, that the primary is over, the contest for the November election is on. Every Democrat who participated in the primary, and those who failed to get to the polls, should work diligently for the success of the ticket.

WAR SITUATION.

An official statement given out by the Russian General Staff says

"During the last three days the enemy has made enormous efforts to dislodge us from the sector of the Narew river from Ostrolenka to Lomza.

"In the district of Jedwabno the is conducting trench warfare, but in the exploding of mines we have continually held the upper hand.

"On the Pissa and Skwa rivers the whole enemy army attacked us, having first launched against us re-enforcements brought from France. Nevertheless we soon saw a complete German defeat in this sector, for it took the enemy a week to drive back from the village of Serwatka (on the right bank of the Pissa) our rear guard regiment; while the battle for the passages of the Narew, near Novogorod, has not even begun,

DESPERATE FIGHTING.

"Near the mouth of the Skwa the enemy, thanks to the forests succeeded in passing to our side of the river, but we successfully prevented him from bringing his artillery across the Narew and at the point of the bayonet we annihilated some forces which were deprived the protection of their artillery.

"These failures compelled the enemy to withdraw from this sector the re-enforcements which had come from France, and send them to re-enforce the Rozan army, which was moving more rapidly.

"This army was considerably strengthened by other re-enforcements which came to it from the left bank of the Vistula. Nevertheless all efforts of the enemy to make progress to the east and west were broken by the River Oje.

AIMING AT OSTROLENKA.

"The enemy then changed the direction of his attack and now on the front between the Narew and the Oje is making great efforts to advance in a northeastern direction toward Ostrolenka.

"During three days of fighting the enemy repeatedly hurled large masses of infantry against our trenches, but while suffering severe losses he advanced only two or three versts (1.8 miles.)

"On August 3 our troops during a particularly desperat German attack, which we repulsed, saw the enemy's cavalry make an assault on their own infantry, who had been thrown back, in order to force them to attack us again. The German losses here were very great.

ATTACK IS REPULSED.

"In the Southern section of the battle near the village of Polshivnitza the enemy concentrated a large mass of infantry in order to pass across the valley of the Oje, but our artillery smothered his attack at the end of the valley, forcing the Germans in this region to disperse.

"Our losses were very heavy but our troops are making valiant resistance to the enemy's plan to deal a severe blow from the Narew line on the rear of the Russian armies which are impeding Field Marshal von Mackensen's offensive in the Vievprz valley."

Race Against Time.

A race against time for the line of Kovno, Grodno and Brest-Litovsk, by which the Germans are trying to forestall the Russians and secure a foothold there while the summer still favors military operations, is the view held by local military authorities.

Direct operations against Warsaw are regarded at the moment of less concern to the Germans than the business of advancing their wings through a country which with the approach of autumn will become impassible.

It is even suggested that the Germans do not desire to force an evacuation of Warsaw, but are bent instead on detaining the army there, while daily limiting the field of possibility of an orderly retirement Eastward and a subsequent fortification along the mentioned line.

CAMDEN OPPOSES SHIPPING BILL

Senator From Kentucky Is Adverse To Taxing People To Raise $40,000,000

SAYS BILL IS UNDEMOCRATIC

Ship Purchase Bill An Economic Blunder and Cannot be Defended as a Business Proposition—Would Commit the Democratic Party to Paternalism and State Socialism.

Washington, D. C. (Special)—Senator J. N. Camden of Kentucky made a speech in the Senate upon the Ship Purchase Bill that has attracted an unusual amount of attention. Senator Camden is opposed to taxing the people of Kentucky $40,000,000 until they have been heard, and defined his position on this important legislation in his speech before the United States Senate, February 4, 1915, as follows:

Mr. Camden. Mr. President, I would like to state my reasons for voting to recommit this bill. I consider it undigested, half baked, and full of fallacies, and thoroughly undemocratic in principle and theory.

Object to Government Ownership.
To my mind there are several serious objections to the enactment into law of this bill, almost any one of which would be sufficient in itself to compel me to cast my vote against it. Viewed from the standpoint of time-honored Democratic doctrine and principle, it is most alarming, objectionable, and dangerous. I feel that I do not exaggerate when I say that the policy of true Democracy will be fundamentally changed by the passage of this bill. If it becomes a law, the Democratic Party will be irrevocably committed to the theory of a paternal form of government, which, freely translated, means state socialism. This is the entering wedge for Government control of other forms of trades and industries. Personally I am far from convinced that the Democratic Party of this Nation is prepared for this great leap into the dark. And I do not feel that this country should be committed to this new and radical policy without having it thoroughly discussed before and digested by the rank and file of the party and the people and have their seal of approval or, at least, their indorsement of the undertaking before they are irrevocably committed to this doubtful governmental ownership and operation of a merchant marine.

President Wilson, in his message to Congress on January 28 vetoing the immigration bill, recently passed by both Houses, and which passed the Senate by a vote of 50 to 7 and the House by a vote of 284 to 14, said:

"If the people of this country have made up their minds to limit the number of immigrants by arbitrary tests, and so reverse the policy of all the generations of Americans that have gone before them, it is their right to do so. I am their servant, and have no license to stand in their way. But I do not believe that they have. I respectfully submit that no one can quote their mandate to that effect. Has any political party ever avowed a policy of restriction in this fundamental matter, gone to the country on it, and been commissioned to control its legislation? Does this bill rest upon the conscious and universal assent and desire of the American people? I doubt it. It is because I doubt it that I make bold to dissent from it. I am willing to abide by the verdict, but not until it has been rendered. Let the platforms of parties speak out upon this policy and the people pronounce their wish. The matter is too fundamental to be settled otherwise."

This terse and facile language of the President expresses my views of the shipping bill so much clearer and more emphatic than I could that I take pleasure in adopting and applying it to this bill. If it be true that the literary test of the immigration bill would "so reverse the policy of all the generations of Americans that have gone before," what reversal of policy do we find in this shipping bill, which commits the people unheard, consequently without an opportunity to make up their minds or render their verdict on an undertaking so revolutionary that the business world must stand aghast. "Has any political party ever avowed a policy on this fundamental matter, gone to the country on it and been commissioned to control its legislation? Does this bill rest upon the conscious and universal assent and desire of the American people? I doubt it. It is because I doubt it that I make bold to dissent from it. I am willing to abide by the verdict, but not until it has been rendered. Let the plat-

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

VII.—Hon. Elihu Root

On Woman's Sphere

The question of Woman Suffrage is an issue before the American people. Twelve states have adopted it, four more states vote upon it this fall and it is strongly urged that it become a platform demand of the national political parties. It is therefore the privilege and the duty of every voter to study carefully this subject. Hon. Elihu Root, in discussing this question before the Constitutional Convention of New York, recently said in part:

"I am opposed to the granting of suffrage to women, because I believe that it would be a loss to women, to all women and to every woman; and because I believe it would be an injury to the State, and to every man and every woman in the State. It would be useless to argue this if the right of suffrage were a natural right. If it were a natural right, then women should have it though the heavens fall. But if there be any one thing settled in the long discussion of this subject, it is that suffrage is not a natural right, but is simply a means of government, and the sole question to be discussed is whether government by the suffrage of men and women will be better government than by the suffrage of men alone.

Into my judgment, sir, there enters no element of the inferiority of woman. It is not that woman is inferior to man, but it is that woman is different from man; that in the distribution of powers, of capacities, of qualities, our Maker has created man adapted to the performance of certain functions in the economy of nature and society, and woman adapted to the performance of other functions.

Woman rules today by the sweet and noble influences of her character. Put woman into the arena of conflict and she abandons these great weapons for strife, weapons with which she is unfamiliar and which she is unable to wield. Woman in strife becomes hard, harsh, unlovable, repulsive; as far removed from that gentle creature to whom we all owe allegiance and to whom we confess submission, as the heaven is removed from the earth.

The whole science of government is the science of protecting life and liberty and the pursuit of happiness. In the divine distribution of powers, the duty and the right of protection rests with the male. It is so throughout nature. It is so with men, and I, for one, will never consent to part with the divine right of protecting my wife, my daughter, the women whom I love, and the women whom I respect, exercising the birthright of man, and place that high duty in the weak and nerveless hands of those designed by God to be protected rather than to engage in the stern warfare of government. In my judgment, this whole movement arises from a false conception of the duty and of the right of both men and women.

The time will never come when the line of demarcation between the functions of the two sexes will be broken down. I believe it to be false philosophy; I believe that it is an attempt to turn backward upon the line of social development, and that if the step ever be taken, we go centuries backward on the march towards a higher, a nobler and a purer civilization, which must be found not in the confusion, but in the higher differentiation of the sexes."

forms of parties speak out upon this policy and the people pronounce their wish. The matter is too fundamental to be settled offhand or in any other way." Mr. President, I am willing to be guided by the wish of the people when expressed on this great fundamental question and even surrender to the will of the majority my "clear conviction," but I am not willing to surrender that conviction and my sense of duty until the people have spoken. For these reasons I participated in none of the so-called conferences, afterwards denominated caucuses, by which it was sought to bind Democratic Senators to support this bill, which is in no sense a party-platform measure.

I can find nothing in the platform utterances of the Democratic Party that in any way commits Democratic Senators to its support or even countenances this proposed measure, but, on the contrary, as I read the merchant-marine plank of the Democratic platform of 1912, it clearly condemns such a procedure as is here contemplated. That plank reads:

"We believe in fostering, by constitutional regulation of commerce, the growth of a merchant marine, which shall develop and strengthen the commercial ties which bind us to our sister Republics of the South, but without imposing additional burdens upon the people and without bounties or subsidies from the Public Treasury."

As I understand the purposes of this bill, it does not attempt to be in harmony with this platform declaration to regulate or to "foster by constitutional regulation of commerce the growth of a merchant marine," but, on the contrary, it proposes for the Government to jump full-fledged into the business itself and simultaneously create and conduct a merchant marine, and does it in open and flagrant violation of the platform declaration, because in doing so it is not regulation but operation; and, besides, it is manifestly imposing "additional burdens upon the people" by using forty millions of the people's money in a hazardous venture, and that, too, at a time of great public stress, when the Treasury needs every dollar to avoid further taxation of the people. This is no time for doubtful business ventures or experiments. Individuals, guided by experience, are cautious; why should the Government be otherwise? Are we true to our constituents' interests or to our oaths of office if we commit the Government to a business venture so fundamentally unsound and unwise, in which we as individuals would not embark, convinced, in advance, as every business man must be, that it will necessarily be a losing investment? No country has tried Government ownership for a fundamental reason. They realize that it places the conduct of its foreign business in the realms of international affairs and complications. There is nothing in the experience of those countries which have tried, or are trying, government ownership of railroads or other public utilities that would recommend it to us as a success. The wasteful and unbusinesslike manner in which the Government conducts its affairs, State and Nation, is of itself sufficient to discourage and to condemn such an experiment, especially at a time when our revenues have decreased to such an extent, owing to the foreign war and the shrinkage in imports. If I could, under ordinary or normal conditions of our country's existence, give my consent to try this most basic change of party principle and policy, I would certainly feel it a reckless tempting of fate if I agreed to an experiment in the world crisis that is in the balance now.

Peace Sentiment—Its Popular Hold on the People and Danger of World Complications.

Probably the one sentiment more than any other act of this administration that has gained the confidence and affection of the American people for the Democratic Party is the feeling that it has kept this country at peace.

Disregarding for the moment these serious objections of Government ownership, it looks to me like madness to jeopardize the peace and happiness of this Nation for an assumed and doubtful commercial advantages. I feel that if this Government engages now in the ocean carrying trade it is a certain invitation to disaster. To my mind we will inevitably be entangled in the world conflict now raging. During our Civil War we exercised the right of search of vessels of friendly nations consigned from one neutral port to another; but we confined that search only to merchant vessels of other nations and not to naval vessels. Would ships owned and operated by the United States Government in times of congested trade, but so designed in ordinary conditions to be used as auxiliaries in the Navy—would those be naval ships or not? What would be the status of a merchant marine owned and operated by the United States Government? As it stands now, according to international law merchant ships under convoy of a neutral warship are exempted from visit and search. Will the American people think it advantageous for our Government to go into trade at this time and forfeit the advantages now enjoyed by its naval vessels?

At present belligerents claim the right to search all vessels carrying the United States flag if contraband is suspected. The American people are willing to submit to seizure, search, and detention of vessels owned by private capital and to await the decision of international courts; but could or would they submit to apparent indignities offered to the United States Government in the form of one of its vessels? It is not only an unneutral act but practically a declaration of war for any Government to furnish a belligerent with supplies. Can this Government dissociate itself from that position in the eyes of the warring nations if it embarks on the carrying trade at this time? If this bill does not undertake to embark the

How to be Certain of Curing Constipation

Prejudice is a hard thing to overcome, but where health is at stake and the opinion of thousands of reliable people differs from yours, prejudice then becomes your menace and you ought to lay it aside. This is said in the interest of people suffering from chronic constipation, and it is worthy of their attention.

In the opinion of legions of reliable American people the most stubborn constipation imaginable can be cured by a brief use of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. You may not have heard of it before, but do not doubt its merits on that account, or because it has not been blatantly advertised. It has sold very successfully on word of mouth recommendation. Parents are giving it to their children today who were given it by their parents, and it has been truthfully said that more druggists use it personally in their families than any other laxative.

Letters recently received from M. E. Myers, Morrison, Tenn., and Ada Hamersmith, 118 W. Chestnut St., Louisville, Ky., are but a few of thousands showing the esteem in which Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is held. It is mild, gentle, non-gripping—not violent, like salts or cathartics. It cures gradually and pleasantly so that in time nature again does its own work without outside aid. Constipated people owe it to themselves to use this grand bowel specific.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. E. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Dinner Party.

Mr. Will Ed Frazer had as his guests on Monday night the Misses Rhorer, Rennebaum, Sampson, Whitfield, Callison and McCoy; Messrs. Rhorer, Malcom, Ashmead, Bennett and Freeman, at a six o'clock dinner at the Elk's cafe, in honor of Miss Helen Rhorer, of Atlanta, and incidentally celebrating his birthday.

After a delicious dinner was served by that far famed caterer, Major Heath and then repastee being indulged in, toasts were drunk to the natal day of the host, who responded gallantly to the peasantries of his guests. The party then repaired to the Manning and witnessed Graustark, the feature film of the month, with especially prepared music for the occasion. Everyone enjoying the hospitality of Mr. Frazer were loud in their praise of his "personally conducted" party and left for their respective homes in the hope that he will not overlook his birthday in the future.—Pinnacle News, Middlesboro.

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without its tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

LIVE INCIDENTS MAKE UP LIFE

Stories From Europe's Battlefields Full of Wonder—French Guerrillas Bother Germans in Belgium.

WHILE the mighty war of nations progresses, which eventually is to decide the fate of several of the world's greatest powers, the fate of each individual soldier is also hanging in the balance. Each minute of his life is a lifetime in itself when facing fire or performing some dangerous duty. Each one, if he were a writer, after a battle could tell a story so thrilling it would put the efforts of the author of a best seller completely to shame.

Men in the trenches fight and die, never to be heard from again, while others are permitted to tell their deeds to a listening world because of a chance meeting with a correspondent, a letter written home or by an act of bravery of unusual merit which comes to the attention of the officers.

Detached Force Molests Germans.

In all its wealth of heroic actions the present war contains no more surprising episode than one which has just been brought to light. The facts are as follows:

For over four months, ever since Aug. 23, an organized company of 150 French soldiers have been living in the Belgian provinces of Luxemburg and Namur, and, although surrounded entirely by the German forces occupying Belgium, they have constantly escaped capture. For more than four months they have conducted a guerrilla warfare against their foes, inflicting heavier losses and more damage than could be done by an entire regiment in the open, and every attempt of the Germans to dislodge them from the mountain forests where they have found refuge has failed.

These 150 men are all that is left of the French troops who vainly attempted in a two days' battle to resist the German advance between the rivers Lys and Semois on Aug. 22-23. The order for general retreat sent out by the allied forces on Sunday, Aug. 23, reached them too late. Their only way of retreat, through Mezières, having been cut off, and realizing that they were surrounded, they decided to seek refuge in the thick forests with which this region is covered and to await there the return of the French forces, which in their minds then was a matter only of days.

Having decided to remain within the enemy's lines, the men were organized by the few officers who had survived the battle, and after a careful survey of the country a place of concealment was selected from which it would be possible to do the most harm to the enemy with the least danger of detection. Scouting parties were sent to the nearby villages, who enlisted the aid of the inhabitants, all of whom have long ago fled the country and are now beyond the reach of German reprisals. A good supply of ammunition was the most urgent need of the soldiers, and women and children volunteered to make a search of the Lys-Semois battlefield and to empty the cartridge belts of the dead French troops still unburied.

HEALTH OFFICER'S COLUMN.

BY U. L. TAYLOR.

I have been for quite a number of years trying to promote the public health by working through the public schools, and have been succeeding very well. I have been every year visiting the public schools and talking to the teachers and the children on sanitation and the public health, until they expect to see me come, and really seem to enjoy my coming. The law requires the health officer to visit the schools, and see after the sanitation, ventilation and everything that in any way pertains to the physical condition of the schools, and when a new house is to be built, he is to look after the location, and construction of it, and see that the play ground is good and amply sufficient. A good many of the old houses are deficient in everything that goes to make up a modern school house, and its surroundings. There is nothing that is so often lacking as ventilation. Our educational board seems not to have studied the science of ventilation as thoroughly as they should have done, or as the law requires them to do.

I can very well remember when our house builders would cut a hole through their doors to let the cats pass through, so that they could watch over the rats that the rats and mice were inclined to make over the house generally. I have been told by men who lived before I did, that before my recollection the house builders would cut two holes of different sizes, one for the big cats and one for the little cats, never thinking that the little cats could pass through the doors made for the big cats. While I do not remember to have seen a door mutilated in this way, I have no doubt of the truth of the allegation. We laugh at our fathers for doing these foolish things, and yet our modern school house builders are guilty of things more foolish. They so construct their houses that the pure air, and the foul air, the fresh air and the air that has been exhausted, will all have to pass through the same openings, going in different directions at the same time. In the new houses that have been built in the last two or three years, the builders have failed to make any provision for the lowering of the upper sash in the windows. Children sitting near the open windows early in the morning get the pure breezes that come through the open windows, draw their chests full, breathe it out, and it immediately rises, (for warm air always rises,) it goes to the ceiling, stays there till it cools off, then comes down and the children breathe it again and it again goes up. This goes on over and over again, until the air becomes unfit for breathing purposes, and becomes loaded with poison. The children become dull and sleepy, listless and unable to study, and will soon have headache, and the teacher concludes they are sick and sometimes sends them home. If the upper sash could be lowered from the top the case would be some better, but the way the windows are arranged the trouble would not altogether cease, for the windows do not reach near enough to the ceiling, and there is generally about three feet of space between the top of the window and the ceiling, in which it is impossible for the poisoned air to get out, and much of it will come down to be rebreathed over and over again. To avoid this trouble I proposed to the educational board to have tin tubes two inches in diameter put right against the ceiling, six or eight on each side of each house, but the board thought the expense would be too great, and declined my suggestion. These tubes would have cost forty cents a dozen, and one dozen would have been sufficient for one house. I am having a yard cleaning at all the school houses, and the physical aspects and the general surroundings of the house are very much improved. There ought to be, and there must be more attention paid the play grounds than has ever been paid before. It is the business of the health officer to look after the location of the school houses, and I have rejected the sites for several houses because the facilities for playing were not good. Without good play grounds the physical well-being of the children are bound to be neglected. A well developed mind in a poorly developed body should not be allowed. What does it profit a boy or girl to gain all the knowledge that a teacher is able to impart, and then dwindle away for want of proper physical development. This physical development can only be acquired on a regular play ground, and the teachers ought to require them to do it.

In Indiana, West Virginia, and several other Northern states, a stove is not allowed in a school room, unless it has a jacket around it. This is not required in Kentucky, but it is only a question of a very little time when it will be required in our State, and the teacher who leads off in this innovation, (if it be an innovation) will stand at the head of the procession. I shall undertake to induce some of our teachers to jacket their stoves, when the time comes to have fire in their houses.

In fact, Tanlac has made me feel like a different woman, and I wish that very excellent medicine great success."

Uncle John Hadley is very feeble at this writing. We hope he will get better after the surprise birthday dinner his neighbors gave him on July 30th 1915. He seemed to enjoy the day very much. After dinner there was singing, scripture reading and prayer, after all present shook hands with Bro. Hadley and all departed with great joy. There were 41 of his friends present.
